Subject: PABIODIV: WBFO interview with wilderness historian Doug Scott

Doug Scott, author of The Enduring Wilderness: Protecting our Natural Heritage Through the Wilderness Act, was in the Allegheny National Forest region this past week to discuss his book and the outlook for permanently protecting additional Pennsylvania wilderness as outlined in the Citizens' Wilderness Proposal for Pennsylvania's Allegheny National Forest.

In addition to informative, entertaining, and well-attended evening presentations in Bradford, Warren, Erie, and Meadville, Doug also found the time to stop in to the studios of WBFO in Buffalo, New York to discuss his book. His interview with WBFO news director Mark Scott (no relation), which ran on the station's "Morning Edition" programming on Thursday, March 15th, can also be heard online (contact the sender for the URL).

For a limited time, copies of The Enduring Wilderness are being offered by Friends of Allegheny Wilderness for a modest donation of $10. If you would like a copy of this important history of the National Wilderness Preservation System and America's citizen wilderness protection movement, please send a check or money order made out to "Friends of Allegheny Wilderness" at the below address. Be sure to note in your correspondence that you are ordering a copy of Doug's book. Proceeds go directly to protecting wilderness in Pennsylvania's only national forest!

The late actor Christopher Reeve called The Enduring Wilderness "an invaluable guidebook to saving America's wilderness. A must for ordinary citizens who care about saving our wilderness heritage for future generations. Hopeful, practical, compelling."

Thank you!
