Hi,

Sorry for the re-post, but a clarification: the talk by Tim Gallagher is free and open to everyone.

Cheers,

Rich

Hi all,

Tim Gallagher, author of The Grail Bird: The Rediscovery of the Ivory-billed Woodpecker and editor of Living Bird, the publication of the Cornell University Laboratory of Ornithology, will give a talk on the rediscovery and the status of the ongoing search for the ivory-billed woodpecker. The talk, which will be followed by a book-signing, will be held on Monday, April 16th at 7:30pm in Pfahler Auditorium, Ursinus College, in Collegeville, PA. Directions are available on the Ursinus web site, www.ursinus.edu or in pdf format by clicking here <http://www.ursinus.edu/resources/directions.pdf> . As you may be aware, Tim is one of the people who rediscovered the IBW in eastern Arkansas in 2004, is a coauthor of much of the scientific literature that has come out of Cornell since then, and continues to be deeply involved in Cornell's ongoing IBW research program.

Please feel free to contact me if you have any questions.

Cheers,

Richard L. Wallace
